Horrible Diseases.
How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from poisons absorbed into the system! Look at their blotched and disfigured faces and their pale and sallow complexions, denoting them for the loathsomeness of mankind, and the enjoyment of life, which this horrid situation thousands suffer until death ends the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends and physicians of those who are suffering with any of these life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made these diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most favorable case, where mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those interested in the welfare of their friends, to be aware of the many pretended doctors who are now publishing their skill in curing all diseases of a private nature, and thereby deceive the public by using certificates of eminent physicians from Europe and America. Be therefore careful and make sure before you or your friends put into the hands of these impostors.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, MARCH 31, 1875.

THE COLORED PEOPLE OF THE SOUTH.

In fourteen questions, which will be found in another column, Fatlier Kelly calls attention to the condition of the colored people in the South, and the gloomy prospect for them in the near future. It cannot be doubted by any thoughtful person that the situation of the colored race in that section of the Union is indeed critical. So long as the contest of races continues active, as at present, the practical equality of the colored people before the law will be abridged. While a technical and theoretical equality will undoubtedly be maintained, this will be so hedged about by the prejudices of the dominant race as to render it impossible, in many cases, for the negro to enforce his rights and redress his wrongs to the same extent and with the same certainty as if he were a white man. To dispute this would be to assert that the Southern people have not the same human nature that is acknowledged by people of other climes.

We do not fear another rebellion, and we do not believe with those who say the white people of the South are more vicious, or less conscientious than people of the same relative rank in the North. We utterly repudiate, as only fit to find lodgment in narrow and bigoted minds, the idea that any considerable per centage of the white people of the Southern States sympathize with the outrages committed upon the colored people by ruffians and desperadoes. And we place in exactly the same category the absurd story that the whites have any deliberately formed intention of denying the legal rights of the colored people. But they can no more set aside all the prejudices of their entire education and mete out impartial and unbiased justice to all classes alike than we could "if similarly situated; and a moment's reflection will serve to satisfy any of us we could not do it.

Nor is it to be overlooked that a sudden change in the condition of the colored people from slavery to freedom and citizenship, together with the great amount of noise and strife that have been made over them, has caused them to put too light an estimate upon their own claims. They expect even more rights than the whites; or, at the least, they expect government to interpose in their behalf when it would not do so for whites similarly situated. Thus many of them have become arrogant and disorderly, provoking difficulties which they might avoid.

Can the state of these people be rendered more tolerable and their rights be better secured by the enactment of severer laws for their protection? The most thoughtful men, Republicans as well as Democrats, express doubts of it. Legislation under our system of popular government is generally supposed to be founded upon popular sentiment. Certainly it can never go far in advance of popular sentiment, without reaching the limit of the possibility of enforcement, and becoming a dead letter. There is already law enough to protect the colored people of every State in the enjoyment of the most perfect equality of rights, if legislation could accomplish that object. The problem must be met in some other way. It may be the encouragement of the colored people in immigration to the Southern Territories, to which they are adapted, is the key to the situation; but whether that or some other is the true solution, it cannot be denied the question of what we shall do with the colored people and for the colored people, is rapidly coming to the front of public discussion.

SOMETHING THAT MIGHT BE EXPEAINED.

It is now an open secret in circles well informed on political topics at the East, that the temperate and conservative course of Speaker Blaine with relation to the measures for governing the South, is taken by the President as a personal offense. Though not so in fact, the President thinks he is regarded by the country as the leader of the extremists of the Republican party in this Southern business, and that the revolutionary policy for which these extremists labored during the late session with so much zeal, is considered as identical with the general policy of his administration; and so thinking, he cannot but view the conduct of any man of great prominence, like Blaine, who opposes that policy as hostile to his own further aspirations and ambitions. A Washington writer says the report of the reception tendered to Blaine by General Bingham at Philadelphia after the adjournment of Congress, coupled with his formal nomination for President by a club of Republican politicians of that city, was received at the White House with undisguised dissatisfaction. The President, it is asserted, made no pretense of concealing his resentment toward Gen. Bingham for making himself the central figure in the affair, and persons intimately friendly at the Executive Mansion have inaugurated measures designed to secure the removal of the General from the position he now holds of Government disbursing officer for Philadelphia.

It has come now to this complexion, that whoever will retain the friendship of the Executive, must be careful not to countenance the aspirations of any other possible candidate for the Presidency. Whether that is to be accepted as signifying that the President still contemplates entering the list for 1876, we leave every one to judge. It is certainly susceptible of that construction, though it may mean nothing more than that President Grant has some candidate of his own whose prospects may be prejudiced by any demonstration favorable to another. This explanation leaves the case only less bad than a candidacy for a third term would be. If there is some explanation of the peculiar bearing of the President, which leaves out both these views and is less objectionable than either of them, the people would be very glad to see it.

THE BRIDGE PROJECT.

We are assured by those who are in a situation to know, that the report of our morning contemporary about arrangements for the building of a bridge here is entirely groundless. The subject of a bridge across the river between this city and East Portland has been agitated more or less for some years, as every citizen knows, and once or twice there appeared to be some prospect of the work's being taken hold of in earnest, but it has always failed at last. We should be exceedingly glad to be able to announce to our readers that this enterprise was again on its feet, with good prospects of success. It would be a most important enterprise for this city and for East Portland, and we cannot see why it would not be a paying investment. We do not pretend to be able to advise our moneyed men in their own business, but we may be permitted to express the opinion that they could not invest the same amount of money in any way that would be of more benefit to the city and county.

A CONNECTICUT TRAGEDY.

William Evans, blacksmith, has resided in the southern part of Oxford for some time past, but for the last two weeks he has been absent from his family, which consists of a wife and two small children. Last Sunday night a friend of the family called at the house, and noticed that Mrs. Evans had a bandage around her throat. He asked her if she had a cold, and she said she had. But her little boy, only four years old, told the visitor that his mother had been trying to cut her throat down in the cellar. His mother tried to stop the boy's mouth by saying, "Hush! you must not tell wrong stories." The visitor noticed that she appeared greatly dejected, although in a rational manner. But the little boy evidently told the truth, for on Monday morning Alvin Johnson, a neighbor, shoveled a path through the snow to the house and entered it, to see if the inmates needed any aid. He found the mother, the little boy, and the baby all lying in one bed with their throats cut. Neither of them was dead. As soon as possible medical aid was summoned, and Dr. Barnes of Oxford, and Dr. Bailey of Seymour, soon reached the house. They pronounced the wounds of the mother and eldest boy not dangerous. They could not tell whether the baby—not yet a year old—would live or not, but judged that the chances were against its recovery. The cutting was done with an ordinary case knife. Mr. Evans and other relatives have been telegraphed for, and will probably arrive in Oxford soon.—Hartford Courant.

CITY.

BOOKS CARRIED AWAY.—A gentleman who arrived in this city yesterday from Clackamas county brings information to the effect that the bridge which spans Pudding river between Gervais and Evan's mill was swept away last Thursday. This bridge crosses the river about two miles above the mill. It has stood a number of years, and on account of its insecure condition has for some time been condemned as dangerous for travel. From all the circumstances there is but little doubt but what a team and wagon, in which were seated a man and his family, went down with the bridge and all were engulfed. On Thursday a man was seen to pass along the road leading to the bridge, and was heard to make inquiries as to the distance and whereabouts of the mill. Since that time nothing has been seen or heard of the man or any of those who were with him. The middle of the bridge fell, leaving the "aprons" standing on the opposite shores. A plain wagon track could be seen leading up on the apron from one side, but no traces could be discovered on the other side where it left the bridge. The most plausible solution of the matter is that when the team reached the middle of the bridge, the old, decayed timbers being insufficient to support the weight, the whole structure gave way, and the team and unfortunate persons who were in the wagon were hurled to destruction—those escaping instant death from the falling timbers, to miserably perish in the water. Since the accident, a number of persons have been engaged in searching along the stream for some distance below the old bridge, and also in dragging the bed, in the hope of recovering the bodies. Our informant states that up to Sunday evening nothing had been recovered. It seems to be a settled conviction among the neighbors that the family have perished. The name, place of residence and number of the family are unknown.

HUMAN REMAINS.—Coroner Wetmore was notified yesterday of the discovery of the human remains in the timber about one mile south of the city, mention of which was made in our last issue, and summoning a jury, that officer proceeded to the spot. It was ascertained at once that the remains were those of a man discovered more than a year ago by two men who were traveling through the timber on Sunday morning. Mr. Dwyer, who was coroner at that time, held an inquest over the body, the full particulars of which were published in the OREGONIAN. The spot where the remains were accidentally discovered was such as to horse or wagon, and could only be reached on foot with the greatest difficulty. So difficult was it to be reached that the coroner gave orders to the undertaker to bury the body near where it was discovered. It was found impossible to carry a coffin or box to the spot, on account of the dense thicket and broken ground, and the remains were interred without being enclosed. A shallow grave was dug in the side of a ravine, in which the half wasted body was placed and covered over. The heavy rains during the past winter washed the loose earth away and left the body partially exposed, where it was discovered on Monday. The jury summoned by Coroner Wetmore were unable to ascertain anything about the name or history of the person, who had evidently destroyed himself during a fit of despondency or insanity. On searching the clothes, the coroner found a silver watch and a $5 gold piece. The watch bore the name of the manufacturer, "Richard Logie," and is numbered 58,912. The bones were gathered up and given a decent burial.

CAUTION.—A word of caution may not be out of place to pedestrians who have occasion to cross the Stark street ferry. At present the river is high and a strong current is running. This subjects the wire cable to a very severe strain, and when the ferry is passing through the current the cable is drawn so far down stream as it will possibly go. To prevent the cable from being stretched across the pontoon at the foot of the street, it is fastened to a pile by a chain near the water's edge. Almost every minute during the day persons can be observed standing carelessly alongside the cable, which is caused to vibrate like an aspen leaf when the heavy strain is brought to bear upon it. The chain which holds it down is liable to be snapped asunder at any time. Such an accident would be attended with very severe, if not fatal, casualties, for the cable would cut the legs off of those who might be standing on the sidewalk or in the street as quick as a flash. While the ferry is crossing to and fro, no one should stand near the cable, for to do so at the present stage of water is positively jeopardizing to life and limb.

PASSENGER LIST.—Per O. & S. S. Co.'s steamship Idaho, sailed from San Francisco March 30th, due at Portland Friday evening, April 2d: Dr. A. M. Belt, Mrs. Hudal and 4 children, A. Roberts, J. Sanders, L. Sanders, J. H. Flint and family, A. Arfeld, C. W. Page, M. Afinsa, T. P. Woodward, L. Klein, Wm. Shumann, Capt. Gus. Wright and wife, J. McIlwain, S. Lowenstein, Geo. Hume, Moses Sellers, N. Baum, P. Goldsmith, S. E. Young, T. Charman, P. E. Brigham, B. Lowenberg, J. Monheimer, J. W. Murray, W. J. Goodman, B. W. Schneider, Wm. Fisher, A. O'Neil, H. M. Kelly and family, S. M. Blizard, H. Franklin, B. M. Belcher, J. W. Sloan, F. A. Cumming, L. Rosenblatt, W. Rosenblatt, Mrs. A. D. Moss, W. H. Axson and wife, J. G. Reed and wife, J. Hardam and son, Jesse Shimer, Jas. Gill, S. Gill, F. Levy, A. Reims, A. Shaw, Mrs. A. Tuttle and daughter, Mrs. M. A. Heasley, 3 daughters and son, S. R. Duncan and wife.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.—On Monday evening a special meeting of the Board of Trustees of East Portland was held at the Council chamber. With the exception of Mr. Parrott all the members were present. The committee on streets and public property reported that they had awarded the contract for the building of the Twelfth-street bridge to Thomas Turnbull for the sum of $464. Report was adopted. Notice of appeal was read from the Irving heirs from the report of the viewers in the matter of the extension of Third street. Placed on file. Claims to the amount of $201 84 for the repair of the Fitch bridge were allowed. The Board then adjourned until the third Monday in April.

LOG CON.—Mr. Smith, the engineer on board the Katie Lade had the misfortune last week to meet with a painful accident. One evening after dark he went down in the cellar to split some wood, taking an ax in one hand and a candle in the other. He thought it needless to set the candle down while he split the wood, and so began to wield the ax with one hand. About the third or fourth stroke the stick suddenly turned, causing the ax to glance, the keen edge inflicting a painful wound on the ankle. He has not been able to walk yet, and will probably be confined to his house several weeks before resuming his post of duty.

BONITA.—The new steamer Bonita (signifying in Spanish "pretty," or "beautiful") is still lying at the boneyard, receiving the finishing touches. All the upper works are about completed and little remains to be done but to furnish the cabin with furniture, carpets etc. A number of machinists are engaged in putting the engines in position and making the necessary steam jointings. The boiler and fire box have already been placed in position, and a large steam drum will be attached in a few days. Within three weeks it is hoped that the Bonita will be ready for the trial trip.

BODY FOUND.—Monday morning, as the train bound from Tacoma to Kalama was nearing Tenino, the engineer observed a man on the railroad track signaling for the train to stop. Approaching him, it was ascertained that the body of a man, about 35 years of age, apparently had been found lying on the track. No marks of violence, as far as we could learn, were visible on his person. A coroner was summoned, and by to-morrow we will probably know all the particulars of the sad affair. The supposition is that he was an escaped lunatic or a drunken man.

PATENT STOVE PIPE.—"An invention for the suppression of profanity," would be the appropriate name for a new style of stove pipe invented by our fellow townsman W. T. Sanahan. It is the simplest thing imaginable, being only the application of the screw in connecting the pipe at the joints. All one has to do is to give the joints a few turns and the pipe is together tight beyond any chance for sparks or smoke to escape. The pipe can be made as cheaply as the old kind and will be vastly easier managed. Mr. S. has applied for a patent on the invention.

ON CLATSOP SPIT.—On Monday evening, the barkentine Architect attempted to sail over the bar. Soon after crossing, the wind died away and the vessel went ashore on Clatsop spit, off Point Adams. We learn that the tug Astoria started down to the assistance of the distressed vessel. Before reaching the point where the Architect went ashore the tug was seen to change her course and start for the Ida Lilly, which was lying at anchor off Fort Stevens. Coming alongside, the tug hitched on and started to tow the vessel to sea. It was thought that the conduct of the captain of the Astoria was very strange, for the tug started out expressly to assist the Architect, and, if necessary, carry away the crew. The only conclusion which could be arrived at was that the stranded vessel had drifted off the spit and sailed out to sea, or had gone to pieces. When the Astoria boat started for Portland the tug had not returned. Full particulars will be obtained to-day.

HOMELESS.—A queer story was told us yesterday of a young man named Geo. Ridding, who lives on Rock creek, Clackamas county. The individual in question was recently deprived of all the hair on his head, face and, in fact, all over his person; and the strangest part of the phenomenon is, that while he suffered the loss of hair he was enjoying as good health as he ever did. The medical fraternity cannot account for the freak of nature. We presume the unfortunate man will go for every preparation known as "hair renewer" with the hope of restoring the hair to the place "where it ought to grow." He is now "as hale and hearty as ever he was," and is as much astonished at his neighbors over the event that has made him the talk of the country.

KEEL LAID.—Mr. Steffen, the contractor for the new boat to be built the present season by the W. R. T. Co., commenced to lay the keel for the same yesterday morning. This new boat will be constructed above the upper sawmill. A large force of men are engaged, and the work will be crowded forward as rapidly as circumstances will permit. It is expected to have the new boat ready for service by the last of May. The boiler and machinery taken out of the old Shoshone when she sunk will be used in propelling the new craft.

SCANDINAVIAN ANNIVERSARY PARTY.—The Scandinavian Society assembled Monday night to celebrate their 2d anniversary, the first successful party of its kind given in Oregon. The evening's entertainment consisted chiefly of music, singing, recitations, etc., after which several toasts were given. The hall, in Dekum's block, was handsomely decorated with flags, banners, etc. Later, a supper was spread, and at an early hour the party dispersed, all with pleasant memories of these few well spent hours.

ELECTION OF VESTRYMEN.—An election for vestrymen of Trinity Parish was held yesterday in the east vestibule of the church, under the supervision of a committee of the vestry consisting of Messrs. Wilson, Glisan, Dendy and McCraken. The old vestry composed of Doctors R. B. Wilson, R. Glisan, Col. McCraken, Judge Matthew P. Deady, Capt. Geo. H. Flanders, and Messrs. C. H. Lewis, Lloyd Brooke, R. Weeks and Edwin Russell, were unanimously elected to serve until next Easter Monday.

JURORS AND CLERKS.—A meeting was held last evening by the Board of Directors of School District No. 1, at which the following judges were appointed to serve at the school election to be held at Masonic Temple next Monday: C. S. Silver, J. L. Atkinson and Lloyd Brooke. A. N. Gambell and John Steel were appointed to act as clerks.

CAUGHT FIRE.—Yesterday afternoon, the roof of a small dwelling house in East Portland caught fire from the flue, and when first discovered a blaze was shooting up. The alarm was given, and the timely application of several pails of water quickly extinguished the embryo conflagration, and "to cut this item short. No damage.

THE OREGONIAN IN SALEM.—Mr. Bartholomew Colby will deliver the OREGONIAN at the Capital immediately after the arrival of the morning train. The citizens of that place can depend upon receiving their paper promptly hereafter. Orders can be left for Mr. Coffey at J. W. Crawford's store, on Commercial street. For the latest telegraphic news take the OREGONIAN and keep posted.

ARAUCO.—This vessel has about completed discharging her cargo of railroad iron, and began yesterday morning to receive flour. This is for the purpose of stiffening up the vessel and preventing her from going over on her beam-ends while the remainder of the cargo is being received. As soon as the iron is discharged the vessel will fill up with flour.

OLD FOLKS' TEA PARTY.—This evening, it should be borne in mind, the ladies of Trinity church will entertain their friends and the public generally at the "old folks' tea party" at Masonic hall. The affair is in excellent hands and a good time may be anticipated by all attending. The fair will be open to-morrow when lunch will be served at the usual hour. Do not miss the opportunity.

HOME CONCERT.—On Friday evening a concert of a rare order will be given at Masonic hall for the benefit of the "Home." A large delegation from Olympia are to be present and aid our local talent in presenting a programme which will prove a novelty—the style being of the olden time both in dress and the selection of music. We shall speak of it again.

SCHOOL ELECTION.—Next Monday a school election will be held in this city at Masonic Temple, for the purpose of choosing one director for three years and one clerk for one year. In East Portland an election will be held at the school house on the evening of April 5th for the purpose of selecting a clerk and director.

AMUSEMENTS.

THEATRE.—"Lighthouse Cliff," was most successfully produced last evening at New Market Theater, in the presence of a good audience. Mr. Herne as "Oliver Liveoak," did some of his most effective acting which was not lost upon the audience, ever ready to appreciate and warmly applaud the efforts. Mrs. Fulford as "May Liveoak," was unusually excellent, and in the more pathetic passages, drew tears from many eyes by her feeling personation of an affectionate and lovable character. Mr. Whiffen as "Hiram Liveoak," the stern and inflexible father, who becomes reconciled with his erring and deeply penitent daughter, did some fine acting. "Ralph Undertow," personated by Mr. Fulford, was fully up to that gentleman's standard. "Hugh Walraven," represented by Frank Cleaves, was faithfully rendered, although the character was distasteful to the audience, being that of a smooth and cunning villain. George Osborn as "McWilliams," and Miss Ada Deaves as "Minnie Jane," each did capitally, and many attractive bills of the season. Mr. Herne will appear in two of his great specialties. "Joe Bartow," in H. J. Byron's beautiful 3-act play of "One Hundred Thousand Pounds," and as "Solon Shingle," in which he has won the highest encomiums from the press and public wherever he has appeared. He will be efficiently supported by the full dramatic company in both pieces. Between the two plays Miss Billie Deaves will appear in the "Silver Clog."

BASE BALL.

THE NEW RULES FOR 1875.

Section 4 of rule 1, amended to read that whenever a ball, in the opinion of the umpire, becomes ripped, cut, out of shape, or in an unfit condition for use, a new ball shall be furnished, on even innings, by the club furnishing the first ball.

Section 6 of rule 1, amended to read that one corner of the home plate shall touch the foul lines to third and first, base.

Sec. 1, rule 4, pitcher's position: either iron or stone plates to be used.

Sec. 2, rule 4. No part of the pitcher's person must be outside the lines of position, while delivering the ball, and the delivery must be perpendicular, and not by a round swing or thrown from the wrist.

[If this rule is strictly observed, it will cause a radical change in the style of pitching, and do away with a large number of "dodges" resorted to by pitchers to increase the speed and effectiveness of their delivery.]

Sec. 4, 5, 6, rule 4. Amended so as to call every third an unfair ball, the first ball delivered to count, if an unfair pitch.

[This throws out the reference to "wides," and is merely a return to the old rule of "called balls," with the addition of counting the first pitch, if unfair.]

Sec. 10, rule 4. "Passed balls" that should happen to strike the umpire are not to be considered "dead."

Sec. 1, rule 5. This amendment is to the effect that the position of the striker shall show a length of two feet front and four feet behind the striker's "line," with a width of three feet.

Sec. 3, rule 5. Two foul strikes to put out a player, instead of three.

Sec. 1, rule 7. Umpires not to be residents of the city in which the visiting club plays. Five names to be furnished by the local club visited, five days prior to the game, and if a choice is not made within forty-eight hours, one of the five names of persons so furnished by the local club to be selected by them, which name shall be selected by the opposing club, and the person authorized to act.

Sec. 11, rule 7. Amended to read: "The umpire shall not enter the infield while the ball is in play."

Sec. 14, rule 7. It is the duty of the umpire to call "dead ball," when the ball is stopped by an outsider, &c., as provided in the section.

Sec. 15, rule 7. The last sentence in this section is stricken out: "But no game shall be forfeited by the failure of the umpire to discharge his duties."

The Best Protection.

The best safeguards against epidemic disease are thorough digestion and firm nerves. It is because they assure the regular performance of the digestive process, and invigorate the nervous system, that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are such a sovereign protective against the influences which beget intermittent maladies, and those which directly affect the stomach and bowels. If the nerves are healthfully tranquil, the assimilation of food perfect, as they are sure to be under the influence of this standard tonic and nervine, malaria may be defied, and if, in the absence of the most reliable of medical safeguards, the system has fallen a prey to disease of an intermittent or remittent type the Bitters will, if persisted in, eradicate every vestige of the malady. Biliousness, constipation and dyspepsia yield with equal certainty to the operation of this potent vegetable alterative.

BE WISE IN TIME.

Consumption is a disease that the victims seldom believe in until too late. It is one of the surest symptoms of the malady, for the patient to insist that the cough "amounts to nothing"—that there is no danger. Beware of this fatal incredulity. Stop the cough before it reaches a fatal point, with that most wonderful of all pulmonics, HALE'S HONEY OF HOREHOUND AND TAR. CHAOS.

Ages to come, I see the world,
And lo! it is full of evil—
Full of women and men;
The only prayer of the good is for death;
And the only feat of the brave, to die.
There is no God any more among all the people;
Science has murdered God,
And now, in her turn, is dying
With that she fed on—man and the world.
The world is full of man, full to rotting.
Full as a channeled carcass crawling with creeping things,
And Science sits i' the heap and grins like a ghastly fiend.
Gibbering empty words when one inquireth the end.
The cattle are slain and slain
Clean away from the earth,
For the need of hungry world.
And all that creepeth and moveth
Is gathered in by lean blue hands
That clutch as the drowning at all things.
The rivers are thick and foul;
For the thirst is more than the water.
The soil is a noisome sight,
Barren with overtask;
Scraped and hoed and mucked
To the smallest sand;
And thieves unearth the seed
For an hour's life.
The air is rank, and the high heaven
Clammy with exhalations;
The heaped world choking, and no green leaf
Any more to transmute the stench.

O, a people exceeding wise is this!
With curious books and tools—
Impotent sages gnashing their wisdom teeth,
Cursing all that is or may be,
Fighting for food like wolves,
Like wolves devouring each other;
Love is dead, and lust
Hunger sits in the sunken eyes
That glare in the cowering woman,
And woman, who, whom alone dies the latest,
Poisons the babe in her womb—
The world is full!
Strangles the babe at her breast—
The world is starving.

—A crash, and the world is done.
The void is filled with a fiery hail
And a shudder that creeps to the farthest star.

THE APOTHOSIS OF WALTZING.

A FRENCHMAN GUSHES OVER THE DELIGHTS OF "THE MAZY."

[Arsene Houssaye's Paris letter to the N. Y. Tribune.]

"That Romance sisters, the inimitable portion of young girl—say 100,000 francs—comes in with a Grenze face, under a forest of blonde hair. A bored young man with 300,000 francs' income asks her to dance. The thunderbolt of love had struck his heart.

"Mademoiselle," he said, "do you like to dance?"

"Very much indeed, sir." "And to waltz?" "Passionately, sir." "Will you make a sacrifice for me?"

The young lady looked at the young man. "Why not?"

"Very well, Mademoiselle, do not dance nor waltz this evening."

"And for this sacrifice?" "I offer you my name and my fortune."

"That is a great deal," said the young girl, untempted by her feet than her heart. "Depose heur those violins."

"Mademoiselle, you called the Count de ——— and I have three thousand livres of income."

The young girl doubtless reflected that with three thousand francs income one could pay for a great many fiddles.

"Monsieur, she said, let us compromise. I will not waltz or dance with any one but you."

"No, Mademoiselle, I want no such sacrifice. You are the most beautiful person at the ball; every one is gazing at you; we will walk into one of the little drawing rooms and chat together like married people."

"Already," said the young lady, making a saucy face. But she had left her place in the quadrille. She leaned upon the arm of the young man and allowed herself to be taken to the stairway. "This is despotism, sir." "Yes Mademoiselle, I wish to be master before it is after."

The young lady mounted the staircase saying to herself: "Three hundred thousand livres of income, a hotel, a chateau, a racing stable, a hunting equipage, travel like a princess, have caprices like a queen."

They went slowly up the steps, for the Elysee staircase is large, after the manner of Venetian fetes, by a sea of guests. The quadrille was ended. All at once the young lady hears the prelude of Oliver Metra's "Serenade," a Spanish and French waltz, full of rapture and melancholy, full of passion and sentiment. She could resist no longer. She withdraws her hand from the arm which holds it, she glides like a serpent through the human waves; she arrives breathless in the grand saloon of the orchestra. She no longer knows what she is doing, the "Serenade" has so bewitched her. A waltzer who does not know her seizes her on the wing, and bears her into the whirlwind.

Meanwhile what is the three hundred thousand a year man doing? He is desperate; he has had happiness in his very hands, and now he sees it vanishing from him like a dream, all because Waldteufel had the unlucky idea to play that diabolical waltz. The unhappy lover tries in vain to reason with himself, to curse his folly, to swear that he will never look at the woman again. He has not the cougage to go up the stairs. He descends four steps at a time; nothing stops him; he follows the young girl and arrives almost as soon as she does before the orchestra. Alas! she is already off for the waltz. She is a thousand leagues away from him. The first comer holds her in his arm, breathes the fragrance of her adorable blonde hair, revels in the warm glances of her soft eyes, the color of heaven.

Is not this the moment to give you my opinion of the waltz? I will translate it in these maxims which La Rochefoucauld would hesitate to sign:

The waltz is a double life.

The most reckless women are less dangerous than the most platonic waltzers.

The waltz can give love to those who have none, as love gives wit to those who lack it.

Love is to few nothing more than the exchange of two quadrilles and the contact of two waltzes.

A woman has learning enough when she can tell the difference between a two-time and a three-time waltz.

After waltzing, some women go through a quadrille as a purgatory to the waltz.

Women pardon to the waltz what they would never permit to the dance.

AN INDIAN SPORT.—The Indians who hang about town have become so far advanced in civilization that many of them are expert gamblers. Their playing is confined to themselves, and they win and lose with the nonchalance of old sports. A card sharp from the camp near Winnemucca arrived in town a few days ago, and made a terrible havoc among his Piute brethren. Money, blankets and clothing all went by the board, and he has coats, pantaloons and boots enough in his possession to relieve half a dozen suffering families in Kansas. He keeps them for redemption, and some of the young bucks will have to spend a month or two fishing in the Truckee or shooting wild ducks on Washoe Lake, to raise money enough to get even. The name of this famous sport is "Toe or John." He wears a barred suit of red and blue paint on each cheek, and dresses in a linen duster and Parnvian hat.—Virginia Chronicle.

Happiness in this world, when it comes, comes incidentally. Make it the object of pursuit, and it leads us like a wild goose chase, and is never attained.—Hawthorne.

We have no later advices from the Liverpool wheat market than the quotations of the 22d—8s 2d for average California, ex-warehouse.

The general monetary affairs at the East, according to the latest advices by mail, are in hardly so good a condition as is desirable, and disturbances in financial circles have contributed much to depress trade, while the speculative manipulations of the gold clique have unsettled those commodities that are sold on a gold basis. Besides these influences, the mercantile failures in the cities on the Atlantic coast of the United States and in Canada, could not otherwise than cause some agitation. The suspension of several large firms, mentioned in the telegraphic reports from time to time, has sensibly affected those branches of trade with which they were identified, and some very unfavorable complications have been developed. The Call's commercial telegram of the 21st says the sugar business has suffered most, as the firms that failed were more particularly identified with this interest, and the effect of their failure has, indeed, been serious. Many firms, whose credit heretofore was not questioned, have been compelled to buy for cash in order to keep their refineries moving.

In local money matters there is no important change to note, the movement being quite steady and in the ordinary grooves. Speculation of every character being dull and a general disposition manifest, to watch the course of events for a while before launching out extensively into any of the avenues open for the investment of money in our midst. Capital, though it may be in comparatively few hands, is not scarce, considered with reference to the legitimate demands of the community and the rates on which money accommodations can be secured, though still higher than in the cities of the East or even in San Francisco, are yet easier than the people of Oregon are accustomed to.

Trade has not changed in any aspect demanding special comment since our last review, the signs of activity then noticed being still observable, and somewhat increasing as the week progresses. Some large orders for spring stocks to supply merchants in the interior are being filled, and the inland freighting business is larger by far than before since the beginning of the year.

A Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The quotations given yesterday hold good, the only change to note is, there seem slightly firmer tone to the market. No buyer quotes less than $1 40 per cental now, though there are some who are very indifferent about purchasing at these figures, and no transactions of any weight to note in the past twenty-four hours.

FLOUR—There is no change in quotations. Shipments to San Francisco and to ports to the north are still large. We quote at $4 25@4 50 ₹ barrel for the following brands of standard extra, $4 75 for good outside and country brands, and $5 50@6 75 for superfine.

OATS—The market is more quiet and for lots are offering at any price, though we believe buyers refuse at anything above 46 cents per bushel, the range of quotations being 45@46c.

HAY—Is still in moderate request at $16@17 per ton for timothy, with a decline in the receipts. Wild hay is quoted at $12@13.

POTATOES—There is a fair demand for good lots for shipment at 72½@75c per bushel, the range of quotations being 50@60c.

ONIONS—Are quoted at 1½@1¾c per lb.

BUTTER—Receipts are heavier, and we quote at 18c per dozen.

CHICKENS—Good lots quotable at $4 50@5; choice, $4 75@5 per dozen; common, $3 75@4 25.

DRESSED HOGS—The packing season having closed, the only demand is for the home trade and is not brisk at 6@6½c ₹ lb.

E. SMITH,
CARRIAGE MAKER,
Cor. Jefferson and Front Streets,
PORTLAND, OREGON.

Is now making First-Class EXPRESS WAGONS, BUGGIES and CARRIAGES of all kinds.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

At the Oregon State Fair, recently held at Salem, Mr. E. Smith was awarded the First Premiums on an Open and also on a Top Buggy. The latter was built from a design published in the June number of The Carriage Monthly, styled "Mourner Piano-Box Buggy," and elicited much admiration.—The Philadelphia Carriage Monthly.

Mr. E. Smith, of Portland, has on exhibition at the State Fair two Buggies, both Open and Top, and certainly exhibits good workmanship as can be found on the Coast, while several very important improvements have been added, especially in running the same so as not to weaken the axles, by putting the bolts through the same. The commendable enterprise of Mr. Smith is thus displayed, we understand, is being amply rewarded by home city. He will be awarded the first Premium.—Oregonian.

Mr. E. Smith, Carriage Maker, of Portland, exhibited one Open and one Covered Buggy upon the Fair Grounds, which deserve special mention. These Carriages are especially light and durable, and those in need of such a purchase—and who isn't—should call upon him before purchasing elsewhere. Of course Mr. Smith bore off the blue ribbons.—New Northwest.

Mr. E. Smith, Carriage Maker, corner of Front and Jefferson streets, took two Premiums at the State Fair for First-Class Buggies. This speaks well for his work, and is a credit to Portland.—Pacific Christian Advocate.

HOME MANUFACTURE.—Mr. E. Smith, Carriage Maker, of this city, has some splendid Vehicles on exhibition at the Fair.—Temperance Star.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Croup, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

The few compositions which have won the confidence of mankind and become household words, are those which are known and used among not only one but many nations, must have extraordinary virtues. Perhaps no one ever secured so wide a reputation, or maintained it so long as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has been known to the public about forty years, by a long continued series of cures of the most distressing character, that have won for it a confidence in its virtues, never equalled by any other medicine. Its wonderful cures of Coughs, Colds, Consumption, and other pulmonary diseases, are known in every community, from their fatal effects, that all would be forewarned. If the remedy be taken in season. Every family should have it in their closet for the ready and prompt relief of its members. Sickness, suffering, and even life is saved by this timely precaution. The prudent should not neglect it, and the wise will not, for it may be your life the protection it affords by its timely use in sudden attacks.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,
FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR
TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR.

Advancing years seldom fail to bring with them a change in the hair, unless care is taken to prevent it. Many preparations are sold for the purpose of restoring the color of the hair, but rarely, if ever, do they fully accomplish the desired result. Ayer's Hair Vigor is the only preparation that can be relied on with confidence. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from falling off and becoming thin, and consequently bald. It will restore the vitality of the hair when the glands are decayed or partially destroyed, and cause it to grow luxuriantly. Thousands who have used this preparation have been surprised at the rapidity with which it restores gray hair to its original color. It stops the hair from falling, and promotes a new growth wherever the glands are not entirely destroyed and the roots are alive. Nothing can restore hair where the glands are entirely destroyed or the roots are dead.
